

To which His Majesty replied in a short but feeling speech, thanking the company for the address of loyalty and devotion to himself and country.

Capt. Clark then presented His Majesty with two very handsome calabashes.

The King's Guard also presented an address and with it a beautiful gold-headed cane and a bank book containing a department receipt for a small sum of money ($18.50).

PECUNIARY RESULTS.

It is said that at the close of the reception at 4 o'clock, nearly one thousand names had been added to the reception book. A large amount of money must also have been received, as nearly all the natives and the different societies contributed cash in various amounts, from one dollar and up, which would aggregate a large sum.

THE PRESENTS.

The presents to His Majesty were both numerous and costly, and some beautiful designs were to be found in the collection. Many of these presents were designed and executed by Honolulu mechanics, and it is said that this class of our citizens justice to see that their handiwork on this occasion will bear the test of scrutiny with similar goods imported from abroad. The large dining hall of the palace was set apart in which to display these manifestations of favor. A partial list of the most noticeable presents is appended: A beautiful native wood table with stationery, toilet fittings, and sugar canisters, Her Majesty the Queen; handsome calabashes by Their Royal Highnesses the Princesses Liliuokalani, Likelike and Kaiulani; ancient calabash and dishes, H. H. H. Prince; Poomakani; kuku and gold sleeve buttons, Hon. A. S. Cleghorn; silver wash-bowl, old style, with Hawaiian coat of arms engraved on it, and silk quilt in a case, Hon. J. A. Cummings; carriage robe of handsome design, Mrs. Geo. O. Beckley; Nihau mat, Mr. Marcus Colburn; pair of shoes, Mr. J. H. Smith; Nihau mat, Mr. Geo. C. Beckley; brass smoker's stand, W. O. Atwater; frosted ice bowl, Mr. E. L. G. Steele; cake basket, Mrs. E. R. Pratt; ipo calabash, Mr. J. S. Emerson; carriage robe, Mrs. J. W. Robertson and Miss Helen Cleghorn; inland native wood cabinet, Mr. E. Hore; tortoise shell calabash, gold riveted, with silver trimmings, Hon. A. N. Tripp; set of harness, Mr. E. R. Miles; "Kakana Joliffe Waltz," Mr. G. C. Kenyon; oil painting, "Sunrise Effect, Mauna Kea," Mr. D. H. Hitchcock; steel engraving, Hon. D. W. Alexander; set of Hawaiian ferns, Mr. D. D. Baldwin; oil painting of Haleaamama, Mr. Chas. Furness; water scene, Mr. G. West; plush fern album, Mr. F. L. Clarke; kukui watch chain and locket with portrait of Mrs. F. H. Hayselden; Turkish hookah, Mr. S. Roth; smoking outfit in Chinese ebony, Mr. Geo. E. Smith; card receiver, Mr. A. Wanner; ivory toilet set, Capt. and Mrs. F. Bickerton; salad bowl, Hon. and Mrs. Paul Neumann; amber tea set, Major A. S. Bender; Index Atlas, Mr. J. F. Brown; fruit dish, Mr. F. S. Pratt; set of three silver vases, Mr. J. S. Webb; silver fish knife and fork, Captains Babcock and Sheppard; Royal grand march, "Makahiki Kalamama," dedicated and composed in honor of the fiftieth birthday of His Majesty King Kalakaua, by Mr. H. Berger, Bandmaster; a desk made and presented by the pupils of Lahainaluna; gold-headed cane, Capt. J. H. Brown; gold-headed ebony cane, with monogram, pupils of Iolani College; gold cigar case, employees of General Post Office; large calabash, Hon. S. G. Wilder; silver nut bowl, pupils of Royal School; Nihaukiki calabash, Fishermen's Society; a Bible, Kaueo Church Society; Bible, by all ministers of the native churches; two small Bibles and a handsome calabash, Kaunakakai Church Society; a Bible, Kawaihau Church Society; gold-headed cane, Manalohoa Guards; pair of pretty flower vases, pupils of St. Andrew's Priory; hand-painted scene in glass, with scene in form of burlesque, Sisters of St. Andrew's Priory; fancy table, with hand-painted scene on top, Miss Norle; metal table, plush top, with jewel pendants, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hendry; pair crystal goblets and water bottle, Bishop of Honolulu; Mr. W. W. Wilcox; pair of elephant tusks, mounted on stand of native wood, His Excellency, Mr. Gibson. In addition to the foregoing list, there were about one hundred and fifty calabashes of all sizes, a hundred or more kahilis, a set of China ware, cushions, napkins, rings, pairs of slippers, two blith-day cakes, ice pitchers, cake baskets, etc.

The Board of Health, comprising the officers and physicians, presented His Majesty with an elegant silver box resting on a cushion of blue velvet, containing a gift of fifty $20 gold pieces. A portfolio according to the box containing letters from the officials of this department, expressing loyalty and devotion to His Majesty. The following inscription was engraved on the box: "This box, containing $1,000 in gold coins, is presented to His Majesty, King Kalakaua, on his fiftieth birthday, November 16, 1886, by the officers and physicians of the Board of Health, Fred. H. Hayselden, Sec." On the side of the box was inscribed the names of the donors, representing the four principal islands. The presentation was made by the Clerk of the Board, Mr. F. J. Testa, the Secretary, Hon. F. H. Hayselden, reading the following address:

To His Majesty King Kalakaua I—Sire: Speaking in behalf of the officers and physicians engaged in the service of the Board of Health, I beg to offer our warm and loyal congratulations on the anniversary of Your Majesty's fiftieth birthday, and at the same time present for Your Majesty's acceptance a small cash box as an expression of our loyal devotion to Your Royal person.

We desire to rejoice with Your Majesty on this memorable jubilee celebration at the general welfare of the people, for although disease and death still claim their victims, we have reason to believe that general good health prevails, and it shall be our constant aim and purpose to do so in the exercise of our several duties, that the liberal means provided by the Legislative Assembly shall be made most available for the promotion of the public health, so that general well-being shall prevail, and Your Majesty's noble motto of "Hoola Lahui," or "Increase the nation," shall become a happy realization under Your Majesty's beneficent reign. God bless Your Majesty.

FRED. H. HAYSDELLEN, Secretary.

The Custom House officials presented His Majesty with an elegant cane made of Kaniwa wood and superbly mounted with gold. On the top of the head is the Hawaiian coat of arms with the motto "Ua mau ke ea o ka aina i ka pono" in gold letters on a black enameled ground. Round the sides are engraved several landscape views in and about Honolulu. A gold band bears the following inscription: "Presented to His Majesty Kalakaua I, on his fiftieth birthday, by the members of the Bureau of Customs, Hon. John M. Kapena, Geo. E. Boardman, A. Fuller, W. Chamberlain, G. Markham, L. G. Tewksbury, G. W. Miles, H. N. Mosman, G. Nawakoa, H. W. Auld, O. Stillman, J. W. Robertson, J. Markham, J. Crowder, R. Parmenter, B. Whitney."

The cane is the handiwork of Mr. Wanner, and reflects credit on the officers and ability to turn out a first-class job. A neat case made of native wood enclosed the cane.

His Majesty also received many presents in cattle, sheep, pigs, chickens, ducks, sugar cane, sweet potatoes, poi, taro, etc.

THE TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION.

The weather during the day, which had been threatening, culminated, in the evening, in a heavy shower of rain, which lasted until half-past 8 o'clock, rendering the streets sloppy and maddy to an extreme degree. Notwithstanding these drawbacks the gallant "fire ladders" faced the music, not allowing the weather to interfere with their part of the programme. The various engine houses and Pacific Hose house were tastefully decorated with colored lanterns and mottoes, the most notable being the Bell Tower, which was literally ablaze with colored lanterns from the dome to its base, presenting the form of a huge pyramid, and was very generally admired and favorably commented on by the crowds of people, who notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, were so eager to witness the procession that it was greatly for their especial benefit.

The various engines were in the grand procession decorated by the members of each company, and were in charge of their Foremen: Pacific Hose and Hook and Ladder

No. 1, were also in line with their apparatus elegantly draped. The whole management was in charge of Chief Engineer C. B. Wilson, aided by 1st Assistant Volius Ash and 2d Assistant Frank Huestace. Some little time was occupied in getting this large procession in line, when the Hon. J. A. Cummings, Marshal of the Day, gave the order to march, leading the procession, which was headed by the Hawaiian Band. Next came the Chief Engineer, 1st and 2d Assistants, Secretary H. Smith, Engine Surveyor J. C. White, Fire Marshal Maguire, and officers of the Department. Engine Co. No. 1 followed with their engine decorated and polished, and showing a profusion of flags and banners, illuminated in a blaze of light, and occasionally throwing rockets of many colors, bengolins, etc. Mechanic Engine Co. No. 2, came next in order with their machine trimmed and decorated to perfection. The Reformatory School Boys in their nautical uniforms. Hawaiian Engine Co. No. 4 followed with their engine decorated with mottoes, and flowers. Pacific Hose with hose cart decorated with transparencies, followed by Protection Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1, with truck decorated. The men all wore the regulation costume of the department, red flannel shirts, black breeches and black pants. Each man bore a flaming torch, and a wreath of evergreen pendant from his shoulder. The Chinese fire company instead of the traditional torch, bore Chinese lanterns, and brought up in the rear of the fire brigade. Added to the list of march was the Royal School, each boy having a lighted torch.

The whole combined, formed a very lengthy procession, and with the torches and fireworks, made a sight worthy of notice. The procession from an elevated position could be observed by the variegated lights which shot up and illuminated the clouds on their line of march.

The procession took its line of march up Hotel to Nuanu, down Nuanu to King, from King to Richards street, by Richards street to the palace. After making a circuit of the palace, a halt was called and His Majesty appeared ready to receive the gallant firemen and hear their address of aloha. Ready cheers were given His Majesty. Chief Engineer Wilson, after quiet was restored, advanced and presented His Majesty with the following address:

Your Majesty: On behalf of the Honolulu Fire Department I have the honor and pleasure, as their elected Chief, to present their loyal homage and congratulations upon this auspicious occasion.

As subjects of Your Majesty, we renew the assurances of our loyalty and fraternal regard, for we can never forget that the Honolulu Fire Department was honored by your active participation and membership.

As King, we salute you, and pledge our lives to your service.

As a member of the Honolulu Fire Department, we also salute Your Majesty with becoming respect, but with a feeling of fraternity which cannot be broken.

On this, the fiftieth year of your life, with half a century of joys and sorrows behind you, I wish you, on behalf of myself and my comrades of the Honolulu Fire Department, another half century of life and authority. In saying this, I pray that the nation may prosper under your guidance, and that peace and good government may ever prevail.

In conclusion, the Honolulu Fire Department again tenders to Your Majesty their loyal homage and grateful respect, coupled with the hope that your years may be prolonged, and that your influence and power at home and abroad may grow the future for your honor and your Kingdom's welfare.

His Majesty feelingly replied to the "fire ladders," and expressed his admiration for the fine appearance of the Department. Having at one time been a member of the Department, he is the more thoroughly appreciated this compliment, and felt assured that its usefulness in the future would be fully maintained at its present high standard.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

The procession, after giving three hearty cheers to His Majesty, took its departure, making two more circuits of the palace. Moving up Richards street, past Nuanu, down Nuanu to King, down King to Fort, up Fort to Hotel and the Bell Tower, where the procession was dismissed.

THE FIREWORKS.

The display of fireworks from the roof of the palace was fine, and owing to the darkness of the night the effect was beautiful in the extreme. At times the whole roof of the palace was enveloped in colored smoke, from the rockets and other pieces of fireworks set off, embracing nearly all the colors of the rainbow, which would only last for a minute and then disappear, to be replaced by other sets of colored clouds—which to many were really as pleasing as the fireworks. A number of large fancy pieces were set off in front of Music Hall, from a frame made for the occasion. These latter embraced flower pieces and several motto representations of the palace, His Majesty, etc. Owing to the dampness, the large pieces did not show to the best possible advantage. Altogether the display on this occasion was the best ever witnessed in Honolulu.
